NOTES TO USERS

The map is for informational use only. The National Flood Insurance Program has no staff to answer questions, interpret policy, or deal with individual insurance issues. The Vermilion River map is intended for use by individuals to understand the limits of the Special Flood Hazard Area. It is not intended for engineering applications, nor to determine or interpret policy limits or coverage. The map is not a substitute for flood insurance, flood hazard mitigation plans, or floodplain management ordinances. For flood insurance information, contact your insurance company. For flood hazard mitigation, consult with your community officials. For floodplain management, consult with your community officials. For flood insurance, contact your insurance company. For flood hazard mitigation, consult with your community officials. For floodplain management, consult with your community officials.

In order to better understand the information contained on the Flood Insurance Rate Map (FIRM) panel, please refer to the Flood Insurance Rate Map Information Guide (FIRM-IG) provided by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to ensure proper interpretation of the map.

Please note that the map is based on information that is subject to change and may not reflect actual conditions on the ground. Changes may occur due to natural events such as erosion, changes in land use, and other factors.

For questions about this map or flood insurance, please contact your insurance company.

The FIRM-IG is available online at www.fema.gov/business/nfip.