

Pats Bag Making Options

A few notes about Pats Bag Making classes. We need two people to run a class. We need to know which bag you are working on, so that if you need the pattern and/or hardware, we have time to order it in (sometimes up to four-six weeks). A pattern is required for all bags. There is always prep work for the class, some more than others, we do not want you to come in and spend all your time cutting and miss out on the instructions on putting it together, unless you need help with the cutting, in which case, please let us know in advance. We have listed with each bag how long of class time we originally scheduled, so you have an idea of timing. About a week (at this point we usually know if the class is going to run or not) before the class we will send you out the notes of what you should do to prep for your class. If you have any questions, please ask.

MOUNTAIN SADDLE BAGS - 2 SIZES

The Mountain Saddle Bags are compact, easy to make, and will hold all you need! They are modeled after an actual leather saddle bag used to carry my saddle. I've added some strapping detail to add a bit of interest. These will make up nicely in quilting cotton or linen. They can be made in 2 sizes and feature a nicely shaped side gusset, a front flap with a press lock closure, an adjustable shoulder strap, and an internal zipper pocket. The Decovil Light and foam stabilizer add nice structure to the bag and create a very professional finish.
