Hi there! I'm Becky Maddox and I'm running for city council. Even though I was born, raised, and educated in Corvallis, Oregon, since moving here eight years ago, I have developed a love for this beautiful city and her people. I love the snug location right next to the mountains. I love the many fields that surround the city. I especially love the peaches. I have enjoyed meeting with many of you and discussing our shared values of hard work, self-reliance, community, and compassion.

I learned a lot about these values working as a physical therapist assistant. People recovering from injury or illness are quite remarkable in their ability to overcome difficulties. I saw many patients who were able to recover their abilities as they dedicated themselves to the goal of recovery, worked hard to achieve it, and received needed support from their family and friends. The transformation could be quite remarkable.

While our great city is a remarkable place to live, it seems we have a few areas of improvement to make the city even better. While perusing the recent budget report, I noticed that every year the city seems to spend far more money than it receives in taxes and other revenue, leading to deficits between $2,000,000 and $5,000,000. The city also seems to acquire new debts at a much faster rate than it retires old ones. This fiscal management style doesn't seem to fit Brigham City's ethic of hard work and self-reliance. Rainy days are much harder to weather with a budget like this.

We have excellent police, firefighters, and city employees who help keep our city running. Fixing our budget to better serve them and ourselves will take hard work, determination, self-reliance, and compassion, but our city and future are worth the effort!

I'll be a voice of common sense and reason as I serve the citizens of this city. When considering and proposing city actions, I will always ask these questions, "Is it Constitutional for the city to do this? Is it necessary? Can private citizens do it better and at lower cost? Will this increase taxes unnecessarily?"

Governments are there serve the people that elect them; to protect life, punish crime, provide justice for all, and protect the liberty of all their citizens. Let's keep our city great and work to improve it for all Brigham City residents.

Vote Becky Maddox for City Council on August 15th and November 7th
