

James Ahlstrom

My family and I moved to West Bountiful in September 1999 after graduating from BYU's law school and completing a one-year clerkship for the vice chief judge of the Arizona Supreme Court, Bud Jones. We instantly fell in love with the unique charm and atmosphere of this great city. Julia and I raised our four kids here (with help from many of you), and have had two graduate this past year (Austin from BYU and Aubrey from the U). Our Anthony is slated to graduate from Utah State next year, and our baby (sorry, Andrew) is playing golf for Olympic College in the Seattle/Tacoma area. We've lived in four different houses in West Bountiful now (starter home, dream home, temporary rental, and now retirement home), recently moving to the Heritage Pointe subdivision near the Prospector Rail Trail and the southeast edge of the golf course. We choose to stay here because of the high quality of people who feel the same way we do about our community and because of the rich quality of life West Bountiful offers. For my occupation, I'm a shareholder at a Salt Lake City law firm, Parr Brown Gee & Loveless, where I've worked for all the years we've lived in West Bountiful. Julia and I like to watch movies, attend Broadway theater performances, and get outdoors. I'm also a sports enthusiast with interests in basketball/the Jazz, college football, and golf. I served on the Planning Commission for several years before seeking to the City Council and view it as a privilege to try to use my experience and training for the benefit of the community. I hope to be re-elected for one more term to see to completion of infrastructure and development projects and to continue to help the City improve its financial position, avoiding any unnecessary legal entanglements along the way. I'm hoping for one of your three votes from among what I think is a strong field of candidates. You can find more information about me on my website: ahlstrom4wbcc.com. You can also email me at james@ahlstrom4wbcc.com or call me anytime on my cell: (801) 694-2496.