Barbershop Quartet Set for September

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14 - 7 PM - CITY HALL

Just as kids are beginning the new school year, the Arts Council Concert Series will begin again at city hall in September. Join us on Friday, Sept. 14 when Colleen Anderson's "Harmony Road" barbershop quartet will be back performing on center stage. Coleen and her three friends, Kathy Case, Lynmari

Taylor, and Tammy Long will entertain us as they have many other audiences with their fabulous acapella four-part barbershop harmony style. Colleen will be singing the baritone part and is the pitch pipe/choreographer for the group. This will be a musical evening of barbershop fun that you won't want to miss.

Cowboy Poetry Tradition to Continue

FRI., OCT. 12 - 7 PM - CITY HALL

"Howdy partner!" When Fri., Oct. 12 rolls around, all you West Bountiful city slickers should git on down to city hall at 7 pm for the Arts Council's annual evening of cowboy poetry. You can count on an evening of foot-stompin' fun with western music and our own local cowboy poet's rehearse'n original poetry chronicling their life or the life of someone they know in the west. They'll also be quotin' some of their favorite cowboy poets as well; probably yours too. Chairperson Debbie McKean whispered to us that there will be another surprise "Spirit of West Bountiful" award given out. Better come; it could be you.

Susie Carter to sing "Christmas is Coming Concert"

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 9 - 7 PM - CITY HALL

As we celebrate Thanksgiving and begin to realize that "Christmas is Coming," the Arts Council will bring Susie Carter back to city hall on Fri., Nov. 9. There's nothing that will prepare us more for the coming season than Susie Carter's mellow voice singing Christmas favorites. Take a break from the hustle and bustle of the holidays and enjoy this pre-Christmas musical treat. Remember, there's no concert on the second Friday of December. Instead, we'll celebrate Santa's arrival in West Bountiful the first week of December.
