It feels weird to be writing a newsletter with no concrete upcoming events or classes. 2020 has been a strange year all around and right now, I'm just going day by day.

The shop is doing well. We are in no imminent danger of closing our doors. Thank you to all of you who have supported us during these uncertain times. Your donations and purchases have made a huge difference in the survival of the shop. While I did have to cancel some of my April and May orders, I was able to get in a lot of what we had on order.

We are experiencing supply chain issues like many other industries, but our suppliers have been working hard to be as efficient as they can be getting supplies to us. I was somewhat surprised at what sold out of during most of the shut down. With lots of new or returning sewers out there, sewing machines was like toilet paper for awhile.

But in spite of some shortages in some areas, we've been getting lots of new products in. Batiks, Christmas, Fall, Halloween and many new landscape fabrics are just a few products arriving on an almost daily basis. UPS and FedEx have been frequent visitors often using hand trucks. The shop is getting restocked and looking great. I feel like I've become an expert on elastic, something I never would have thought likely at the beginning of the year, and am looking forward to the time when I don't sell it daily.

EVENTS

At this point we aren't planning any major events in the shop until we reach Phase 3. We will start to schedule small classes towards the end of October and into winter time. If you have a particular class you're interested in, let us know. Those of you that were scheduled for classes that were scheduled, we'll be making those sessions up this fall.

We are participating in a online shop hop with Fabshop in the month of August. From August 1st through 31st, look for the "You Found It!" bunny on participating websites and click to register to win one of many prizes. No purchase necessary.
