July 2026 Show and Tell

Fay shared her beautiful one-fabric Bargello, and it didn't take long before many of us were imagining the possibilities.

Jackie chose the perfect borders to showcase this stunning eagle panel in her Quilt of Valor. The bold stars in the corners frame the center beautifully, drawing your eye right to the majestic eagle.

continued...

Dana shared another beautiful Quilt of Valor, and this one has such a modern feel! The bold red, white, and blue fabrics really pop against the light background, and the striped binding is the perfect finishing touch.

Dana proved that sometimes the simplest blocks create the biggest impact! This stunning Quilt of Valor, made entirely from Half Square Triangles, had the whole room gasping when she unfolded it.

continued...

Marnie's latest Quilt of Valor is a perfect example! The bold patriotic prints create a striking design, and the appliqué stars along the top and bottom add the perfect finishing touch.

Clara has this precious baby alphabet quilt nearly complete! With its cuddly backing and charming alphabet panel, it's already full of sweetness.

continued...

Jillyn completed this cozy cuddle-backed quilt just in time for a friend's wedding. I can't think of many gifts more meaningful than a handmade quilt—it's something they'll enjoy for years to come.

Julie continues to amaze us with her mini Exploding Heart baby quilt! The soft pink palette, crisp piecing, and incredible attention to detail make this little quilt absolutely irresistible.

continued...

Judith had so much fun in the Fabric Painting class that she is not stopping with just one! She was so inspired, she bought enough supplies to make 20 more as Christmas gifts.

Sandy S. shared her latest Quilt of Valor, featuring beautiful Friendship Stars woven between patriotic stripes.

July 2026 Show and Tell

continued...

Sandy has Anna hooked on quilting, and judging by this beautiful Walk About Quilt of Valor, I'd say there's no turning back!

Anna created this beautiful baby baseball quilt using a fun mix of blues, baseball blocks, and a cuddly backing that's perfect for snuggling.

Anna isn't just making beautiful quilts—she's branching out into zippered bags too!

July 2026

Show and Tell

continued...

Tony pieced this beautiful Leading Edge quilt, and it definitely turned heads.

Paco designed and pieced this beautiful oversized quilt for her own bed. The blue floral center, surrounded by a sea of hexagons, creates a quilt that's both elegant and cozy.

July 2026 Show and Tell

continued...

Terri shared this beautiful Patriotic themed quilt, the flowing stripes paired with the scattered stars make it feel as though the stars are dancing across the quilt.

Elaine M. experimented with Kawandi quilting, a quilt-as-you-go style of piecing. While she loved exploring a new technique, she also discovered that all those overlapping layers and stitches create one seriously thick scarf!

July 2026

Show and Tell

continued...

Diane has certainly been keeping busy! She shared three wonderful quilts, each with its own special purpose.

A beautiful Friendship Star Quilt of Valor.

A Carpenter Star Quilt of Valor.

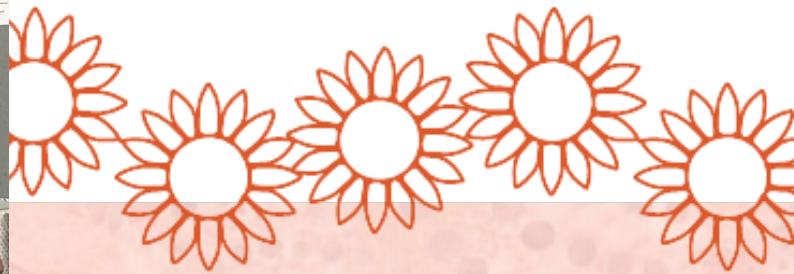

And a stunning half square triangle quilt made as a combined anniversary and birthday gift.

July 2026 Show and Tell

continued...

Sandy C. decided to experiment with a variety of Dresden Plate designs, even trying some with partial piecing. She finished each one with decorative stitching on the appliqué, making the entire quilt a quilt-as-you-go project.

Dona shared this adorable appliqué Dresden sunflower, and it's full of personality! The cheerful petals are beautiful on their own, but it's the collection of buttons in the center that really brings this little sunflower to life.

July 2026 Show and Tell

continued...

Paula couldn't resist this adorable jungle animal panel—and who could blame her? She paired it with a cozy cuddle backing to create the perfect quilt for a lucky little one.

Paula proved that sometimes simple is simply beautiful. She took this music-themed panel, added two coordinating borders, and created a quilt that lets the artwork take center stage.

July 2026 Show and Tell

continued...

Deborah made this adorable cat quilt especially for her granddaughter, who requested one thing: cats! Each feline has its own unique personality, and Deborah even added tipped ears on some of them to represent cats that have been spayed or neutered.

Becky shared this beautiful blue star quilt, and the dragonfly border adds the perfect finishing touch! Even better, it's double-sided, giving it two beautiful looks in one quilt.

July 2026

Show and Tell

continued...

Lynda shared this beautiful Quilt of Valor, featuring a striking eagle and flag panel framed with patriotic stars and bold blue borders. And here's the best part—she already has enough fabric to make another one!

After seeing Fay's beautiful one-fabric Bargello, Sherelle decided to give it a try too! She created this eye-catching one-fabric Bargello table runner, proving that a single fabric can create incredible movement.
