

Challenge Quilt for 2022

The new Washington Stars Quilt Guild challenge quilt is an old one.

We will, again, be working on the Portrait Challenge originally planned for 2021 and moved to the 2022 slot.

The Portrait Challenge 2022 theme is “Here’s Looking at you, Kid.” The color purple is to be included in the art piece. The size is to be no bigger than 16 inches by 24 inches. There is no minimum requirement.

There are no restrictions on who or what makes a portrait. Honoring a family member, a teacher, a favorite pet, or a figment of your imagination are a few suggestions.

Completed pieces are due at the September Business meeting.

The challenge is open to all current members of the WSQG. Any technique can be used to fulfill your design. Please attach a sleeve and a label on your submission.

Inspiration books are: “People and Portraits: Profiles of Major Artists Galleries of inspiring Works” by Martha Sielman, Lark Crafts, 2013, and “Making Faces in Fabric” by Melissa Averinos. The internet is a source for portraiture. See award-winning work by Luke Haynes at www.lukehaynes.com. Also, Google images of faces made by Freddy Moran and Alex Anderson.

For concerns contact committee members, Diane Weeden, Betty Bird, Lana Russ.
