

Sharon Riley

I consider myself an accidental quilter having discovered quilting in 2012 when visiting quilt shops with my Mom and found a quilt I wanted to make. After learning the basics of quilting, I began to put my own spin on patterns and experiment with alternative ways they could be pieced. This led me to discover my love of designing quilts and Studio 180 Design Tools.

2017 marked two milestones for me. The first was becoming a Certified Instructor for Studio 180 Design. The second was having my first originally designed quilt pattern appear in the January/February 2017 Love of Quilting issue. My fifth original quilt pattern will be hitting newsstands near you in the May/June 2018 Quilting Quickly edition. In this issue I also have the honor being of being featured on the cover!

I have loved quilting ever since accidentally discovering it a few years ago and enjoy sharing that love with others. Can't wait to see you in an upcoming class!
