The quilting industry is estimated at over $3.76 billion(†) and on average, longarm quilters report that the time to complete a custom quilt varies from months to years. As the quilting industry continues to grow rapidly, the need for longarm quilting businesses takes center stage!

Red Thread has put together an estimate of how many quilts you would need to create each month in order to easily pay for your machine. We've calculated using an average labor cost of 1.5 cents per square inch, a conservative figure. Quilters who work on heirloom quilting or charge more per square inch may need to complete even fewer quilts per month in order to make the payment.
