Light From Within Cowl with Pattie Aaron
(Designed by CJ Brady)
Light From Within is a clever cowl version of the classic boomerang-shaped scarf. It has the same shape and drape, and gives the same look as the popular boomerang scarves in a very easy-to-wear version. The scarf is crocheted flat and the rows are on the diagonal. The stitch pattern of the main section is an easy-to-memorize two-row repeat. Once you reach the specified stopping point, you crochet the lace section of nine rows. Brady recommends blocking the scarf before sewing the final whip stitch seam to join in the round. This is an easy and fast scarf to crochet and can be made in one afternoon and requires only 200 yards of yarn. Sample made in two skeins of KPPPM (Koigu).

The Fiber Seed Sprout DK (solids) would work well. The Berlin Hat pattern is multi-sized, so there are directions to fit toddlers, children, and adults. The adult pattern has options for either a slouchy fit or a closer beanie/toque fit.
