

November Newsletter

As I sit here reflecting on the past couple of weeks, the word “community” comes to mind. Our community is holding up a family that has been touched by an accident that has affected their son. While their son is fighting for his life, we as a community are supporting them with prayers, fundraisers, food train, etc. I am amazed and proud at the outpouring of love for this boy and his family. It is also amazing that this has not only affected our community, but the surrounding communities. School districts have also shown their support by sending pictures showing the #32 (this boy’s football number).

One Facebook post that stood out the most to me was the one that asks for t-shirts from the surrounding communities. These t-shirts will be made into a quilt ... a quilt that will show this young man the support and love from surrounding communities every time he looks at it. As I think about this quilt, I know it will be designed and pieced with love. Each of you that quilt know that everything you create is made with love for the person it is made for. How amazing that in each and every piece, you hold the power through your talents to express your love for someone!
