There's no doubt about it gold is bold, but it has the potential for a more subtle charm as well. Used as trim it can infuse any room with an unexpected dose of understated glam. It's also perfect for small spaces, such as half baths or sitting alcoves, giving them the feel of luxury and splendor. To soothe it down, accessorize with white. For warmth, think rich woods like ebony or cherry.

Orange crush. Think about it, who isn't infatuated with orange? It's juicy, vibrant, and inviting. Orange is also known to stimulate the mind and conversation. A strong argument for using orange in living and dining rooms. Because orange is unquestionably warm, with high visibility, try using it to emphasize a focal point in any room.

It's hard to see it otherwise; red is passionate! It's a great choice for accents, or for highlighting areas in a room that otherwise might fade into the background. Because red is known to stimulate the appetite, it's a good choice for dining rooms, dining nooks or eat in kitchens. Use it as window trim to add unexpected dimension to a monochromatic room or let it work its magical allure in a small area rug for a strong, warming zing.

HGTV COLOR KNOW HOW!: CHARTREUSE

Eternal spring? Why not cheat the seasons with a healthy dose of yellow green. Otherwise known as chartreuse, studies have shown that this is a shade equally alluring to both sexes. Painting an entire room yellow green makes a bold statement. Combine with white accents and transform your entrance way into a bright invitation to the rest of the home.

HGTV COLOR KNOW HOW!: PURPLE

Purple can be perfect in many ways if you know how to play its game. Here's a quick primer: Purple is known to stimulate intuition, to soothe, to pamper; so natural habitats are the bedroom, meditation room, or bathroom for long, luxurious soaks. Grayed purples add instant elegance when used in right measure. More vibrant purples and red violets stir up interest and perk up more subdued palettes.

PURE WHITE

HGTV COLOR KNOW HOW!: WHITE

Use white wisely. Time to stop thinking of white as a default and more as the dynamic color that it is. Consider its undertones: For warmth, choose whites with yellow in them. For that sleek, cool feel, go with blue undertones. No matter what, using whites will expand the sense of space, and it's the one shade that allows you to create looks that are both classic and contemporary at once.
