

Weightless Quilter

It's Uplifting!

The Weightless Quilter is a floor standing frame engineered to support the weight of the quilt. As you guide the quilt bundle with your hands, flexing poles mimic your movement in a Free-motion dance! The Weightless Quilter rises above the machine to hold the quilt and allow it to move freely while you concentrate on creating beautiful quilting stitches.

- Eliminates battles with weight of the bundle
- Provides a solution for getting a big job done in a small space
- Reduces stress and fatigue on the body
- Works with equipment you already own: traditional sewing machine, sit-down midarm, and sit-down long arm
- Free-motion, stitch regulator, and walking foot-friendly
- Set up in minutes and stores easily when not in use
- Requires no special furniture

The Weightless Quilter's small footprint (36" x 36") fits under a sewing cabinet or table and can even be configured to sit on the sides of a table. It assembles in less than 10 minutes without tools. Eight Flex poles provide three levels of lift capacity: lightweight (thinner poles); medium (thicker poles); firm (combination of lightweight and medium poles).

- Constructed with high quality durable materials
- Poles are strong yet flexible.
- Fabric clips hold the bundle securely
- Easy to adjust the quilt as you stitch
- Patented design
